The Campus Voice

The university newspaper, The Campus Voice, invites applications from students interested in joining its staff. The newspaper is a weekly publication written by students for students. Although previous experience in journalism is helpful, it is not required. Openings are available for students interested in writing, photography, illustration, and advertising. Students will earn one academic credit for each semester they work on the paper. Please direct any questions to the faculty advisor, John Moore.

In order to work on the paper, students must maintain a minimum grade-point average of 3.0. An application is available online at www.campusvoice.com.
