

Good Evening
Everyone 😊

TELL ME A STORY.... USE THESE VOCABULARY WORDS ( GRATIFICATION- CONTENT- AGGRAVATION- JUBILANT-ORDEAL- SALIVATE FOR- REMINISCE- ASPIRE)

Pick your brain.... And complete these sentences talking about yourself.

- I have _____ time to relax.
- _____ my friends think I work too hard.
- _____ my teachers think I work hard.
- I spent _____ weekend relaxing.
- I have _____ interests and hobbies.
- _____ my hobbies are sports.
- _____ my parents look like me.
- _____ my relatives have fair hair.
- My aunt gives _____ us birthday presents.
- My grandparents watch TV _____ time.

Choose the correct word.....

- Anna is such a show-off. She think she knows all/ everything.
- My driver's test was a complete disaster. All/ Everything went wrong.
- I take a shower ever/ each day .
- Tea or coffee? Either/ Neither, thanks. I have to run.
- I know either/ both Robert and his brother but I don't like both/ either of them.
- I have any/ no idea how I spend all my money. At the end of every/ either month, it's all gone.
- My daughters are each/ both good ay languages, but none/ neither of them can do math at all.
- ( on the phone), Hello, this/ that is Beth. Can I speak to Clare?
- What was this/ that noise? Didn't you hear it?
- Who were these/ those people you were talking to last night?
- Well, this/ that will be $ 5.50, please.
- These/ Those shoes are killing me. I can't wait to take them off.

Group 1 : Complete the following..( every- one- her- all of the- the – a – a great deal of- enough- an- the- her- a lot of – a great deal)

- Elsie Morecambe looks up at 1) _____ large gray clouds coming quickly over 2) _____ horizon. “ I’ll go just 3) _____ last time.” she says, jumping onto 4) _____ windsurfing board and speeding off over rough waves.
Back on dry land, 5) _____ group of elderly people watches 6) _____ move she makes with 7) _____ admiration.

Four years ago, at 70, looking 8) _____ younger than her years, Elsie formed 9) _____ organization called Age Well, “ It isn’t 10) _____ to tell people- you have to show them,” she says dragging 11) _____ board ashore to 12) _____ backslapping and praise from 13) _____ group.

Group 2: ( all- her- everything – no – those – their- the – the – her – her – this- most – a – several)

- This is all part of 14) _____ campaign to show that people of 15) _____ ages can achieve 16) _____ they want to do, if they really want to do it. “ It struck me that 17) _____ friends of mine who had 18) _____ job to go to anymore, and who kept complaining about 19) _____ boring and meaningless lives, didn't have to live like that,” she commented.

Elsie has been windsurfing 20) _____ summer months for the last six years, ever since 21) _____ son told her that she was far too old to attempt it. Then she went on 22) _____ solo six-month would trip to Mexico, Thailand, and New Zealand.

- Over last four years she has organized and led 23) _____ groups on trips to Ireland, Israel, and Greece.

So far 24) _____ year she has been walking in 25) _____ Pyrenees, touring on 26) _____ bicycle, and canoeing. “ 27) _____ secret to life is ignoring how old you are,” Elsie says.

Elsie Morecambe looks up at all of the large gray clouds coming quickly over a horizon. “ I’ll go just one last time.” she says, jumping onto her windsurfing board and speeding off over rough waves. Back on dry land, the group of elderly people watch every move she makes with a great deal of admiration.

Four years ago, at 70, looking a great deal younger than her years, Elsie formed an organization called Age Well, “ It isn’t enough to tell people- you have to show them,” she says dragging her board ashore to a lot of backslapping and praise from the group.

This is all part of her campaign to show that people of all ages can achieve everything they want to do, if they really want to do it. “ It struck me that those friends of mine who had no job to go to anymore, and who kept complaining about their boring and meaningless lives, didn't have to live like that,” she commented.

Elsie has been windsurfing several summer months for the last six years, ever since her son told her that she was far too old to attempt it. Then she went on a solo six-month world trip to Mexico, Thailand, and New Zealand.

Over last four years she has organized and led most groups on trips to Ireland, Israel, and Greece.

So far this year she has been walking in the Pyrenees, touring on her bicycle, and canoeing. “ The secret to life is ignoring how old you are,” Elsie says.

Questions....

- Where were they all from?
- How does each woman usually react?
- What did the American do?
- What was some milk used for?
- What control does every person have at the table?
- How were they proven to be without control ?

Use ( every, each or all) to create possible answers to these questions

- What was the meal like?
- Did you apologize to all the guests?
- They didn't all pass, did they?
- Sorry, I only have 50 cents on me.
- When do you think you'll get there?
- Want to grab a bite to eat?

A life in the day Mary Hobson

- Mary Hobson, 77, gained a degree in Russian in her sixties and PhD at 74. A mother of four, she lives in south London.

“ I’ve started to learn ancient Greek. It doesn’t urge you to communicate, only to learn, and I find the early hours of the morning the perfect time for that. I love ritual and routine. I wait until 6 am to have tea; at 7 am. I phone my youngest daughter, and we start the day with a chat. At 7:30 I make breakfast: All- Bran, whole wheat toast, and a pot of black coffee- and I take it back to bed along with the Roman Emperor Marcus Aurelius.

I am dedicated atheist. I regard religion as complete lunacy. You’ve got only one opportunity to be alive : for goodness’ sake don’t waste it waiting for an afterlife. I read Marcus Aurelius every da; it was a philosophy that got me through my son Mathew’s death four years ago in a motorcycle accident. Aurelius said: “ what we cannot bear removes us from life.” Mathew’s death was such a waste. At first I would rather have been dead too, but then I thought: “ No. I mustn't do less. I must do more!”

After a bath I spend the morning translating. A special committee was convened to organize the translation of the works of Pushkin of his centenary. Unpaid, of course. I’m an expert at working for nothing. Poor old Pushkin: some of his letters were scandalous. Really very rude indeed. How was he to know that 200 years later, some old bat would be poring over every line?

“I was 40 before I wrote my first novel, 62 when I went to university.”

“I have an overpowering feeling that I don't want to waste any time. There's so much out there.”

I am what you might call a late developer. I was 40 before I wrote my first novel, 62 when I went to college. My husband, Neil, was a talented Jazz musician, but at 25 he developed a cerebral abscess, losing his speech and the use of his right body side. It was hell for him and a nightmare for us. We were so broke we lived on government assistance for ages. When things got really bad, I'd collect up old China and give it to the children to smash out of frustrations on the wall outside.

I wrote my first novel while Neil had his weekly music therapy. That 50 minute session was all I had. I used to sit in the ABC café in Earls Court and write and write terribly difficult. None of it was his fault, of course, but after 28 years I thought: "it's not my fault either." I was going down with him. I left, and Mathew stayed with him to stop him from going back- I was very grateful for that.

Having snatched a bit of life back, I had to do something with it. My daughter Emma gave me War and Peace, and I loved it so much. Then it hit me: I hadn't read it at all. I'd only read a translation, and I so longed to read the actual words. A marvelous elderly Russian lady taught me the basics, and I enrolled in the Russian language degree course at the University of London. People talk about "the time of their lives" Well, that was mine. Don't tell anyone tell you your memory goes with age. It's there if you want it enough. Gradually I forced it into action—it was such an exhilarating experience. Oh the joy of learning!

I have such good friends!. After a late lunch, I might go and play Scrabble with a Russian lady. I write poetry en route, on buses and trains. I love London. Give me the town over the country any day. I try to go to Moscow every year in the coldest weather. My Russian friends think I'm mad. It hits minus 40 and they find it hellish. I adore lying in bed listening to snow being scraped from pavements.

I have an overpowering feeling that I don't want to waste any time. There's so much out there. I won't be able to get around forever, so when I can't stagger down my front steps, I'll perfect my Greek. I order my groceries on the Internet, so I have everything sent. As long as I have my books I'll be happy.

If I'm not going out, I make supper and get into bed, simple because my feet are awful. Then I phone everyone I can think of. I can't bear TV---it makes me feel as if everyone else is living and I'm only watching. I don't have a newspaper; I get my news through the radio. I sleep rottenly, so I have it on all night. Dreams are horrendous. Mine are all about anxiety and loss. I much prefer the day --- at least you know you're in charge.

Questions

- How did Marcus Aurelius help Mary?
- Who is some old bat? Who was she referring to?
- What was the time of Mary's life?
- What was hell for her? and what did she do about it?

Fix the mistake...

- 1. I make breakfast and I take it back to the bed.
- 2. I am dedicated to atheist. My husband was talented jazz musician.
- 3. You've got only an opportunity to be alive.
- 4. I enrolled in the Russian language degree course at University of London.
- 5. I try to go to Moscow every year in the coldest weather.
- 6. Having snatched a bit of the life back, I had to do something with it.
- 7. Give me the town over a country.
- 8. I make supper and get into bed, simply because the feet are awful.

Oral Quiz 3 😊

- Search online for a famous person in history, who you enjoy reading about
- Talk about this person, give a small summary of their biography.